Market Review

The Malaysian equity market recorded gains in January with the wider FBM100 Index rose by 3.6% while the blue-chip FBMKLCI Index rose by 4.0%. The wider FBM100 Index outperformed MSCI Asia ex Japan Index by 1.2% mainly attributed by a stronger Ringgit which closed firmer at USDMYR 3.8985 as of end-January 2018. Foreign investors continued to be net buyers for the second consecutive month in January with a net buy of RM3.3bn. In terms of sector performance, the finance sector surged by 6.1% outperformed the wider FBM100 Index driven by foreign inflows and interest rate hike of 25 basis points by Bank Negara Malaysia in January 2018.

Malaysian government bond yields spiked upwards during the end of the month after the Bank Negara Malaysia raised 25 bps of OPR. MGS and GII recorded inflows of MYR4.2bil and MYR0.4bil respectively in January. The foreign share of MGS rose to 45.7%, the highest since Jan 2017.

On the corporate front, key development included SP Setia and Sime Darby Property's potential sale of £1.6n (MYR8.8bn) commercial assets in Phase 2 of the Battersea Power Station to Permodalan Nasional Bhd and Employee Provident Fund. Sapura-TIEC Consortium and MMC Corp Bhd-Gamuda Bhd-George Kent Bhd Joint Venture had submitted the turnkey tenders with financing for the MRT Line 3.

Market Outlook

For fixed income, the expectation of the Fed behind the curve and higher than expected wage growth may put further pressure on the yield curve. However, the upward pressure is being mitigated by better economic outlook for Malaysia and optimism on commodity prices, which could attract inflows to the local bond market. As such, we are of the opinion that local bonds should be well supported.

Worries about accelerating inflation stemming from tightening US labor market may weigh on market sentiment of late. That said, US tax reform is expected to further boost economic growth and corporate earnings so far have been exceeding expectations. On the local front, investors remain cautiously optimistic on equities as the general elections draw closer, amid rising bond yields. Fundamentally local market remains supportive on the back of higher oil prices, stronger Ringgit and expected improvement in corporate earnings.
