Market Review

Malaysian Government Securities ("MGS") yield curve shifted higher in March 2022 following the lift-off in the US Federal Reserve Fund Rate by 25 bps at the Federal Open Market Committee ("FOMC") meeting. Locally, news of another round of pension fund withdrawal scheme of up to MYR10,000 per individual also dampened sentiment. During the month, Bank Negara Malaysia ("BNM") decided to keep the Overnight Policy Rate ("OPR") unchanged at 1.75% at the Monetary Policy Committee ("MPC") meeting. On the currency front, MYR weakened by 0.14% against the greenback to close the month at MYR4.2043.

The FBMKLCI ("Index") fell 1.3% Month-on-Month ("MoM") to close at 1,587.36 pts on 31st March 2022. The Index outperformed the MSCI Asia Ex Japan Index, which fell by 2.5% MoM in Malaysia ringgit ("MYR") terms over the same period. Foreign investors were net buyers of Malaysian equities which amounted to RM3.3bn in March 2022, the highest net bought since January 2018. Major news during the month included the government's plans to reopen borders on 1st April 2022, as well as the government's commitment to fund the MTR3 project.

Market Outlook

The recent rate hike by the US Federal Reserve clearly indicated its commitment to manage inflation expectations irrespective of uncertainties and downward pressures on growth, and this had cleared a key market uncertainty. In the near term, investors are assessing the impact of the geo-political tension between Russia and Ukraine, the surging commodity price shock, and its potential impact on inflation and global growth.

The recent regulatory changes, property crisis and power crunch in China are also near-term economic headwinds. Downside risks to the market could stem from further deterioration and protracted global energy disruption, stagflation, and new covid variants, if any. On the flip side, any resolution to the geopolitical tension with minimal disruption on global energy supply should re-rate equities.
