Market Review

Malaysian Government Securities weakened in Apr 2019 amid weaker MYR and profit taking activities by both onshore and offshore investors following the strong rally in the first few months of the year. Investor sentiment was further dampened following the news of Norwegian sovereign fund's intention to reduce its emerging markets' fixed income holdings to make way for its equities, as well as FTSE Russell's statement of putting Malaysia on its watch list for a potential disqualification from its flagship World Government Bond Index. MYR weakened by 1.3% against the greenback to close the month at MYR4.1347.

The FBM100 Index rose 0.54% m-o-m. The Index underperformed the MSCI Asia Ex-Japan Index which rose 3.2% in MYR terms over the same period likely on concerns over potential short-term weakness in MYR due to the potential exclusion of Malaysia from the FTSE Russell World Government Bond Index. Foreigners were again net sellers of the local market with a net outflow of MYR1.5 billion during the month, bringing year-to-date net outflow to MYR2.9 billion.

Meanwhile, Asian equity markets closed higher in April as steady progress in US-China trade talks, positive economic indicators from China and an improvement in the global economic growth outlook helped buoy investor sentiment. Markets gave back some of their gains in the second half of the month on concerns that China's central bank might temper monetary stimulus measures due to improving economic fundamentals.

Market Outlook

Global central banks remain dovish and as trade tension further escalates, fixed income assets remain appealing relative to risk assets. On potential offshore outflows of domestic government bonds due to headlines surrounding exclusion, ample onshore liquidity shall remain supportive of the local bond market, albeit a knee-jerk market reaction is not ruled out in the worst-case scenario of an exclusion.

Locally, recent comments by President Trump on the US-China trade deal have caused jitters in the market. But we see any market weakness as an opportunity to accumulate fundamentally solid companies with good earnings visibility. That said, we turned cautious on foreign market as we believe the strong performance YTD has more than reflected the improvement in corporates' earning outlook.
