Market Review

Malaysian Government Securities were generally well bid in July 2019, in line with lower global yields following US Federal Reserve's decision to cut its policy Fed Funds Target Rate by 25 bps. This was further supported by the stronger Malaysian ringgit on the back of US dollar weakness, which saw buying interests mainly focussed on the belly to the long end of the curve from both local and foreign investors. MYR strengthened by 0.13% against the greenback to close the month at MYR4.1265.

The FBM100 Index fell 1.87% MoM in July, in line with the overall softness in the regional equity markets. This could be due to concerns on trade war between the US and China and slowing global growth. Foreigners were net sellers of the local market with a net outflow of MYR79 million during the month, bringing year-to-date net outflow to MYR4.7 billion.

Meanwhile, MSCI Asia ex Japan Index fell 2.56% in MYR term during the month, Asian equities corrected in July as hopes of a positive outcome to US-China trade talks diminished. Negotiators met in Shanghai at the end of the month and while discussions were described as constructive, however, no significant progress was made resulting in growing concerns that both sides could be preparing for a lengthier confrontation.

Market Outlook

Against the backdrop of global geopolitical uncertainties, as well as the increasing likelihood of a prolonged trade tension, global monetary policy accommodation is likely to be extended. This shall continue to lend support to fixed income assets, barring any risk of a currency war. While the risk of index exclusion for domestic government bonds remain, ample onshore liquidity shall remain supportive of the local bond market albeit a knee-jerk market reaction is not ruled out.

On the equity front, the recent proposal by President Trump to impose a 10% of tariffs on USD300bn worth of imports from China effective 1st Sept 2019 has caused jittery to the local market. Despite this, we continue to look out for opportunity to accumulate fundamentally solid companies with good earnings visibility at lower levels as we expect the equity market to gradually recover over the long run, underpinned by Malaysia's strong macroeconomic fundamentals. Malaysia is under-owned by foreigners and has underperformed its regional peers on a year-to-date basis. We also see potential support from the revival of infrastructure projects and potential relocation of activities to Malaysia as a result on the ongoing US-China trade spat. We will remain vigilant to the constantly evolving market conditions and will adjust our strategy accordingly.
