Market Review

Malaysian Government Securities continued to weaken in Feb 2021, in line with the sell-off in global bond markets and softer domestic sentiment. Heavy selling pressure was seen across the curve, particularly on the belly to the long end of the curve. MYR weakened by 0.24% against the greenback to close the month at MYR4.0498.

The FBM100 was up 1.77% Month-on-Month on 26 February 2021. The Index outperformed the MSCI Asia Ex Japan Index, which rose by 1.5% MoM in MYR terms over the same period. Foreigners were net sellers of the local market with a net outflow of RM900 million in February 2021. Meanwhile, China was the underperformer in the region. While the domestic recovery continued and was encouraging, the equity market has experienced a sizeable risk-off since the Lunar New Year holiday with profit-taking on the growth stocks dragging performance.

Market Outlook

Accommodative monetary and fiscal policy support are expected to remain for a large part of 2021 until there are signs of sustained recovery momentum and demand-pull inflation. Potentially higher funding via supply of government bonds for the stimulus measures, coupled with growth rebound and higher inflation would keep the yield curve steep. That said, a weaker USD outlook and risk-on mode could drive sustained participation by foreign investors into emerging markets, including the local bond market. Besides, ample liquidity in the domestic financial system remains supportive of the domestic bond market.

Meanwhile for equity, given the rising long-term yield outlook as economic recovery gathers momentum, funds are expected to rotate into equities from bonds. Domestically, the revival of stalled infrastructure projects, trade diversion into Malaysia from the ongoing US China tension, and the recovery in commodity prices should bolster growth and exports going forward. Downside risks to the market could stem from any delay in roll-out of mass vaccination and uncertainties from the fluid domestic political landscape.
